License Grant. This Agreement grants Licensee one of the following non-exclusive and non-assignable licenses. The price list description pages attached to the sales quotation and the bar code serial number sticker included with the Software Product will designate the type of license granted.

a. "Concurrent-use software" is designated by CU in the product description. Each license for CU software permits a single concurrent use on the specified type of workstation and operating system. If Licensee has multiple licenses for the Software Product, then at any time Licensee may have as many copies of the Software Product in use as Licensee has licenses. Unless otherwise specified, the license is restricted to a LAN. There is a single use of CU software when it is loaded into memory for execution or when it is stored on hard disk, or both, on a single workstation. A copy stored on hard disk on a network server for the sole purpose of execution by network workstations is not in use on the network server. If the anticipated number of Users of the Software Product will exceed the number of applicable licenses, then Licensee must have a reasonable mechanism or process in place to assure that the number of persons using the Software Product concurrently does not exceed the number of licenses.

b. "Standard Concurrent-use software" is designated by CS in the product description. Each license of CS software permits either (1) unlimited (24 hrs/day) desktop use OR (2) remote application server or portal server use up to 12 hours/day. CS software cannot be used on both a single workstation and on a remote application server or portal server. An "Extended Concurrent-use" (CX) license is required for use on both a single workstation and on a remote application server or portal server. Each license for CS software permits a single concurrent use on the specified type of workstation and operating system. If Licensee has multiple licenses for the Software Product, then at any time Licensee may have as many copies of the Software Product in use as Licensee has licenses. There is a single use of CS software when it is loaded into memory for execution on a single workstation or remote application server. A copy stored on hard disk on a network server for the sole purpose of execution by network workstations is not in use on the network server. If the anticipated number of Users of the Software Product will exceed the number of applicable licenses, then Licensee must have a reasonable mechanism or process in place to assure that the number of persons using the Software Product concurrently does not exceed the number of licenses.

c. "Extended Concurrent-use software" is designated by CX in the product description. Each license of CX software permits (1) unlimited remote application server or portal server use (24 hours/day) OR (2) any combination of single workstation use and remote application server or portal server use. Each license for CX software permits a single concurrent use on the specified type of workstation and operating system. If Licensee has multiple licenses for the Software Product, then at any time Licensee may have as many copies of the Software Product in use as Licensee has licenses. There is a single use of CX software when it is loaded into memory for execution on a single workstation or remote application server. A copy stored on hard disk on a network server for the sole purpose of execution by network workstations is not in use on the network server. If the anticipated number of Users of the Software Product will exceed the number of applicable licenses, then Licensee must have a reasonable mechanism or process in place to assure that the number of persons using the Software Product concurrently does not exceed the number of licenses.

d. "Concurrent-use WEB Access software" is designated by CW in the product description. Each license for CW software permits a single concurrent use on the specified type of workstation and operating system. If Licensee has multiple licenses for the Software Product, then at any time Licensee may concurrently use as many copies of the Software Product as Licensee has licenses. Unless otherwise specified, the license can be utilized over a LAN, WAN or standalone workstation. A single use of CW software is defined when the Software Product is loaded into memory for execution on a single workstation, regardless of whether said use is accessed from the network server or from the workstation hard drive. The copy of the Software Product stored on the hard drive of a network server for the sole purpose of execution by network workstations is not deemed as an "in use" copy of the licensed Software Product. If the anticipated number of Users of the Software Product will exceed the number of applicable licenses, then Licensee must have a reasonable mechanism or process in place to assure that the number of persons using the Software Product concurrently does not exceed the number of licenses.

e. "Server software" is designated by VR in the product description. Each license for VR software permits a single copy of VR software to be stored on hard disk and loaded for execution on the specified type of network server and operating system. Each license for VR software permits a designated number of Users to simultaneously access the Software Product on the network server. It is the responsibility of the Licensee to assure that no more than the licensed number of Users access the VR software simultaneously at any one time.

f. “Single-use software” is designated by SU in the product description. Each license for SU software permits a single copy to be stored on hard disk and loaded for execution on a single designated workstation and operating system. It is the responsibility of the Licensee to assure that SU software is not moved to a second workstation until it has been completely removed from the first workstation.

g. “Named User software” is designated by NU in the product description. A Named User is defined as a individual employed by the Licensee who is authorized by the Licensee to use the Software Product and associated Software Product programs on the designated system under the terms of the License Agreement, regardless of whether the individual is actively using the Software Product programs at any given time. The number of Named Users is determined by simply counting the number of people who will have access to the Software Products.

h. If this Software Product is purchased as an upgrade or provided as an update to a previous version of licensed software, this Software Product may be used only to replace the previous version, and no additional license is granted. This Software Product and the previous version may not be separately used or transferred to a third party.

i. For the continued use of some Software Products it may be necessary for Licensee to reregister and obtain new license Keys from time to time.

The language in Sections a-i above shall apply except for the license of the token version of SmartPlant Foundation software. The token version of SmartPlant Foundation software is licensed as follows:

a. Token-based applications are licensed as "Server Software." Each license for Server Software permits a single copy of Server Software to be stored on hard disk and loaded for execution on the specified type of network server and operating system. Token-based applications may require the installation of client-based software on local user nodes (e.g., personal computers, workstations, etc.). Such client-based software may be installed on an unlimited number of user nodes. Access to the SmartPlant Foundation token-based application through these user nodes will require the following access mechanism:

(i) A "Daily Token" is an access mechanism that allows up to twelve (12) hours of continuous access (clock time) to the Server Software after which time another Daily Token will be required. Daily tokens are used as an access mechanism in the purchase model.

b. If this Software Product is purchased as an upgrade or provided as an update to a previous version of licensed software, this Software Product may be used only to replace the previous version, and no additional license is granted. This Software Product and the previous version may not be separately used or transferred to a third party.

Licensee and Users may:

1. Copy this Software Product into any machine-readable or printed form solely for backup purposes in support of Licensee’s licensed use of the Software Product;

2. Modify this Software Product and/or merge it into another software program for licensed use (any portion of this Software Product merged into another software program will continue to be subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement);

3. Transfer this Software Product and license within Licensee’s Company (intra-company transfer) as set forth in the PP&M Software Transfer Policy. A copy of the PP&M Software Transfer Policy is available upon request. If Licensee does transfer a seat or seats of this Software Product, Licensee must at the same time either transfer all copies, modifications, or merged portions of the seat(s) being transferred, in whatever form, to the same party, or Licensee must destroy those not transferred. "Company" includes Licensee’s own company or a company or organization in which the transferring entity owns a fifty percent (50%) or greater interest.

4. Use the Software Product only in accordance with PP&M’s education policy in those cases where an education license has been granted. This policy is available on request.

5. The Licensee may install SPLM license Keys on in a virtualized environment provided that the virtualized environment is configured in such a manner to safeguard against duplication of the SPLM license Keys. This configuration is not supported, and Licensee uses the license management system in a virtual configuration at its own risk.

Licensee must reproduce and include the copyright notice on any copy, modification, or portion of this Software Product merged into another software program.

Licensee and Users may not:

1. Transfer this Software Product and license to another company or entity (inter-company transfer). If Licensee does transfer possession of any copy, modification, or merged portion of the Software Product to another party except as expressly provided herein, the license is automatically terminated.

2. reverse engineer, decompile, disassemble or otherwise attempt to discover the source code, underlying user interface techniques or algorithms of the Software Product by any means whatsoever, directly or indirectly, or disclose any of the foregoing, except to the extent Licensee may be expressly permitted to decompile under applicable law in the European Union, in order to achieve necessary operability of the Software Product with another software program, and Licensee has first requested PP&M to provide the information necessary to achieve such operability and PP&M has not made such information available. PP&M has the right to impose reasonable conditions and to request a reasonable fee before providing such information. Any information supplied by PP&M or obtained by Licensee, as permitted hereunder, may only be used by Licensee for the purpose described herein and may not be disclosed to any third party or used to create any software which is substantially similar to the expression of the Software Product. Requests for information from Users in the European Union with respect to interoperability should be directed to the Services group for the local PP&M office or write Process, Power & Marine, 300 Intergraph Way, Madison, AL 35758.

Prior to the start of an audit, PP&M's personnel, or third party personnel under the direction of PP&M, will sign a non-disclosure agreement to be provided by Licensee. During the audit, PP&M's personnel or third party personnel, if applicable, will be provided reasonable access to both Licensee's records and personnel. The cost of the audit shall be paid by PP&M unless the results of the audit indicate that Licensee has underpaid fees to PP&M, in which case, the Licensee agrees to promptly pay PP&M such fees at the price previously agreed to for such licensed Software Product and further agrees to bear all costs associated with the audit.
